This is an overview of the AP Japanese Language and Culture Exam. This presentation will provide you with a preview of the question types and directions screens that you'll see on exam day.

The exam is administered in school on school-owned computers through an exam application. On exam day, you will follow directions spoken by the proctor. During various parts of the exam, you will also read on the screen, listen through a headset, type using the keyboard, and speak into a microphone. Read the information on the screens carefully.

Exam Format

The exam will take approximately two hours and 15 minutes to complete. The exam has two sections. This includes a 10-minute break between Sections I and II.

Section I consists of multiple-choice content.

- Part A: Listening
- Part B: Reading

Section II, the free-response section, requires you to produce written and spoken responses.

- Part A: Writing
- Part B: Speaking

About This Presentation

- This overview does not present an entire exam but does include questions that represent the various parts of the regular exam.
- The screen images in this presentation are from the practice exam, which is available through the exam application. Some screen images in this presentation include an Exit Part button, but this button will not appear in the regular exam.
- This presentation includes screens where some details, such as references to the number of questions or administration time, refer to the practice exam and do not match the regular exam.

The following image shows the Enter Student Information screen that you'll complete in place of an answer sheet on exam day.

At the start of the exam, students need to acknowledge they have read and agreed to the AP Exam Terms and Conditions.

The screenshot shows the 'Enter Student Information' page from the CollegeBoard AP Exam application. At the top, there's a header with the CollegeBoard logo and the letters 'AP'. Below the header, the title 'Enter Student Information' is displayed, followed by a note '* Required field'. The form contains several input fields: 'AP ID' (UYV9XYWV) with an 'Edit' link, 'School Code' (100121), 'Last Name *' (empty input field), 'Middle Initial' (empty input field), 'First Name *' (empty input field), 'Date of Birth *' (dropdown menus for Month and Day), 'Exam Room Number' (empty input field), 'Exam' (selected option: 'AP Japanese Language and Culture'), and a 'Certification Statement *' section. In this section, there's a checkbox followed by a text box containing the terms and conditions agreement. A 'Continue' button is located at the bottom right of the form area.

General Directions

The table in the "At a Glance" section that follows provides an overview of the exam, showing the number of questions and amount of time for each part and the contribution of each part to the final AP score. The first section of the exam contains several listening tasks and reading tasks, which test your ability to use Japanese in the interpretive mode of communication. In this multiple-choice section, select one answer choice to choose an answer. You may select the oval  or anywhere on the answer choice. To change an answer, select a different answer choice. To leave a question unanswered after you have selected an answer, select the chosen answer choice again to deselect it. The total score on the multiple-choice section is based only on the number of questions answered correctly. Points are not deducted for incorrect answers or unanswered questions. The second section of the exam contains 4 free-response tasks, which test your ability to use Japanese in the interpersonal and presentational modes of communication. You will type your responses for the writing tasks, and your responses for the speaking tasks will be recorded. Various tasks in the exam will also test your knowledge of Japanese culture.

The proctor should have provided you with scratch paper and a pencil, which you may use to take notes and to organize your responses. You must return the scratch paper and pencil to the proctor at the end of the exam.

At a Glance

The following table summarizes the exam format. The total time listed for each section takes into account time for reading directions, moving from question to question, etc. As a result, the estimated time for each section may be greater than the sum of the estimated times for each part.

Note: The directions throughout the exam regarding timing for specific questions reflect the standard timing. If you have been approved for extended time, the adjusted timing for applicable parts of the exam will be reflected accurately on the clock that appears on the screen.

At the beginning of the exam, you should read the General Directions carefully (continued on next page).

Hardware Check

Before the exam begins, we will check the headset and microphone volumes. Please make sure your headset is on and your microphone is placed in front of your mouth.

Select Continue to go on.

Before the first part of the exam, you will check that your headset and microphone are working properly.

The screenshot shows a digital interface for the AP CollegeBoard Japanese Language and Culture Exam. At the top, there is a dark blue header bar with the CollegeBoard logo and the letters "AP". Below this, a light blue navigation bar contains the word "Listening". On the right side of the navigation bar are three buttons: "Exit Part" (with a door icon), "Volume" (with a speaker icon), and "Continue" (with a right-pointing arrow icon). The main content area is titled "Listening Part Directions". It contains the following text:

You will listen to several selections in Japanese. For each selection, you will be told whether it will be played once or twice. You may take notes as you listen. Your notes will not be graded. After listening to each selection, you will see questions in English. For each question, choose the response that is best according to the selection. You will have 12 seconds to answer each question.

A clock at the top of the screen will show you how much time is remaining to answer the question.

When the response time has ended, you will automatically go on to the next question. You cannot return to previous questions.

You will now begin this part.

Select Continue to go on.

The multiple-choice section begins with Part A: Listening.

The screenshot shows a digital interface for an AP Japanese exam. At the top, there's a black bar with the CollegeBoard logo and the letters "AP". Below it is a blue header bar with the word "Listening". In the top right corner, there are "Exit Part" and "Volume" buttons. The main content area has a white background. At the top left of this area, it says "Prerecorded message" and "Selection plays two times.". Below that is a dark grey control bar containing a "Pause" button (with a red "X" over it), a progress bar showing "1:15 / 1:23", and the text "You may play this audio 1 time". A large blue arrow points from the text "An audio progress bar appears whenever you hear audio material through your headset." towards the control bar.

Reading

Reading Part Directions

You will read several selections in Japanese. Each selection is accompanied by a number of questions in English. For each question, choose the response that is best according to the selection.

You will have 15 minutes to answer all the questions. A clock on the screen will indicate how much time is remaining.

Some selections include characters underlined in blue. Select the characters to see a definition or an explanation.

You can move to the next question by selecting Next. You can skip questions and go back to them later as long as there is time remaining. If you want to return to previous questions, select Back.

For later review, you can mark a question by selecting Mark, which will place a check mark in the Marked column on the review screen for that question. Selecting Mark again will remove the check mark. A question will remain marked until you unmark it, even if you change the answer.

You can select Review at any time, and the review screen will indicate which questions you have answered and which you have not answered. The Marked column indicates all questions you have marked for review. From the review screen, you may go directly to any question.

You will now begin this part.

Select Continue to go on.

The multiple-choice section continues with Part B: Reading.

During the Reading part, you may access the Help screens.

NOTE: The clock does not stop when viewing the Help screens. The more time you spend on Help, the less time you have to answer questions.

- Next (right arrow icon): After you answer a question, select Next. You may still return to the question and change your answer after selecting Next.
- Back (left arrow icon): Selecting Back will take you to the previous screen or question.
- Exit Part (exit icon): Selecting Exit Part will skip ahead to the next part. The Exit Part button will not appear in the regular exam.
- Help (question mark icon): Selecting Help will bring you to Help. From Help you can get information on different topics by selecting one of the tabs on the screen. You are now in Help.
- Review (book icon): Selecting Review will allow you to access the Review screen. The Review screen lists all of the questions in the reading part and their status. The Status column indicates if a question has been answered, not answered, or not encountered. The Mark column shows all questions you have marked for review. The question you were on last is selected and highlighted when you enter the Review screen.
- Mark (checkbox icon): Selecting Mark will place a check mark on the Review screen next to the questions you may want to review again. Selecting Mark again will remove the check mark. A question will remain marked until you unmark it, even if you change the answer.

Select Return to go on.

Writing Part Directions

You will participate in a simulated exchange of text-chat messages and write an article.

The input method for typing Japanese text is the Google Japanese IME, which allows you to type in different modes. To produce hiragana (あ), type in romaji and select the Enter key. To convert a typed word to katakana (ア) or kanji, type in romaji and select the space bar, which displays a list of options for katakana and kanji. Choose the desired option by pointing and selecting with the mouse or by using the up/down arrows and selecting the Enter key. If you need to produce English letters, such as "ATM", select and hold the Shift key while typing the letters, then select the Enter key. Releasing the Shift key returns you to the Japanese IME. Note that you should use English letters only in cases where they would normally be used in authentic Japanese writing. Do not use romaji or English as a substitute for words that should be written in Japanese.

For both tasks, you will have a specific amount of response time. A clock on the screen will indicate how much time is remaining. When the response time has ended, you will proceed to the next question. You cannot return to previous questions.

Select Continue to go on.

The free-response section begins with Part A: Writing.
