Score Rationale

The written evidence identifies materials, processes, and ideas.

The work in this portfolio uses traditional art materials with various approaches to demonstrate 2-D skills. In Work 3, a still life with many “childhood toys” features an awareness of composition that incorporates light, contrast, unity, and variety. The warm and cool color palette creates effective balance. Furthermore, the use of repetition and rhythm are evident in Work 4. The range of values in Work 5 presents the effective use of white and black charcoal.

The visual relationships among materials, processes, and ideas are evident. In Work 1, the idea of “a girl showing her love and adoration for a toy she loved as a child” connects with the processes of using an “orange hue around the stuffed animal to add an aura of warmth.” In Work 2, the visual relationships of “collage and layer paper” proficiently support the idea of digital media in the monochromatic portrait. Additionally, the transparent layering of text within the composition relates to “many tabs open in a brain.”
