Written Evidence
Sustained Investigation

Identify the question(s) or inquiry that guided your sustained investigation.

Describe how your sustained investigation shows evidence of practice, experimentation, and revision guided by your question(s) or inquiry.

Response:

1. How can I portray the reality and unconventional cultural beauty of Black people in the South, as it relates to my personal experiences?

2. Inspiration for my investigation was obtained from the hairstyles, fashion, movies and overall culture of black people in my neighborhood and in the South. Color schemes in my pieces are reminiscent of album covers from Hip Hop, R&B/Soul artists that I listen to while painting. Initially I just painted black women. In an effort to diversify my subject matter, I included more paintings of men. I posterized my images because I was unsure about my brush strokes and how to execute certain values. With each piece I practiced and improved painting techniques. During the process of this investigation, I researched painters like John Signer Sergeant. I attempted to emulate loose and expressive brush strokes. After exclusively using canvas, I switched to Masonite Board and increased the amount of paint used to achieve my desired brush strokes. I took inspiration from and built aesthetics based on the many parts of my culture that I love. I took care to ensure my pieces reflected the beauty of my culture that is often appropriated and ridiculed.

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Row A: Inquiry – Score: 3</td>
<td>The written evidence clearly identifies the student’s inquiry of investigating aspects of “the reality and unconventional cultural beauty of Black people in the South.” The work presented distinctly and unquestionably demonstrates that stated intent. In both the written evidence and the materials and processes information, the student discusses a variety of influences that informed color schemes and the exploration of specific cultural aspects. Additionally, the writer alludes to the research of other artists and the decisions made during the investigation with regard to surface and mark-making. The student’s written evidence is undeniably related to the initial inquiry and demonstrates an inquiry that successfully guides the investigation.</td>

<tr>
<td>Written evidence identifies an inquiry that guides the sustained investigation. AND Visual evidence demonstrates the sustained investigation.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Row B: Practice, Experimentation, and Revision – Score: 3</td>
<td>There is specific visual and written evidence of the student’s practice, experimentation, and revision that reflects the development of the sustained investigation. For example, the student states, “After exclusively using canvas, I switched to Masonite Board and increased the amount of paint used to achieve my desired brush strokes,” a clear demonstration of experimentation and revision. Furthermore, the composite images 4, 7, and 9 contain sketches, resource photos, and progress shots that reveal the student’s research and development of the sustained investigation. The written and visual evidence exhibit the student’s awareness of practice, experimentation, and revision.</td>

<tr>
<td>Visual evidence of practice, experimentation, AND revision demonstrates development of the sustained investigation. AND Written evidence describes how the sustained investigation shows evidence of practice, experimentation, OR revision.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Row C: Materials, Processes, and Ideas – Score: 3</td>
<td>The successful integration of materials, processes, and ideas is clearly evident. For the final portrait, image 10, the student chooses a traditional portrait format, an image of a young man with “wicks”—a hairstyle that the student states is, “deemed ugly in our community.” The student notes in the written evidence that, “I took care to ensure my pieces reflected the beauty of my culture that is often appropriated and ridiculed.” With the use of the traditional portrait format, enhanced by applying gold leaf in the background, the student successfully synthesizes the materials and processes with the idea by the use of material often associated with religious icon paintings. The size and choice of the vertical format for both portraits on Masonite, images 3 and 5, demonstrates thoughtful integration with regard to the emphasis on the hairstyles examined in each.</td>

<tr>
<td>Visual relationships among materials, processes, AND ideas are clearly evident and demonstrate synthesis.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Row D: 2-D/3-D/Drawing Art and Design Skills – Score: 3</td>
<td>This portfolio exhibits visual evidence of advanced drawing skills. The student’s experimentation with mark-making in the application of the paint is evident in all works and is especially noteworthy in images 3 and 5. The student is successful at developing form through the manipulation of light and color. Thoughtful consideration of composition and format is evident in most images as well.</td>
