The AP English Language and Composition course focuses on reading, analyzing, and writing about imaginative literature (fiction, poetry, drama) from various periods. There is no prescribed sequence of study, and a school may offer one or both courses.

Recommended Prerequisites

There are no prerequisite courses for AP English Literature and Composition. Students should be able to read and comprehend college-level texts and write grammatically correct, complete sentences.

Course Content

The course content is organized into nine units, arranged in a logical, suggested sequence. Teachers create their own curricula by selecting and sequencing texts and tasks, and students develop the skills of literary analysis and composition as they repeatedly practice analyzing poetry and prose, then compose arguments about interpretations of literary works. At the end of each unit, teachers have the option of assigning Personal Progress Checks to gauge student progress.

The suggested unit organization is as follows:

- Short Fiction (Units 1, 4, 7)
- Poetry (Units 2, 5, 8)
- Longer Fiction or Drama (Units 3, 6, 9)

The following big ideas serve as the foundation of the course, enabling students to create meaningful connections among concepts. Each big idea correlates with an enduring understanding, a long-term takeaway related to the big idea:

- Character: Characters in literature allow readers to study and explore a range of values, beliefs, assumptions, biases, and cultural norms represented by those characters.
- Setting: Setting and the details associated with it not only depict a time and place, but also convey values associated with that setting.
- Structure: The arrangement of the parts and sections of a text, the relationship of the parts to each other, and the sequence in which the text reveals information are all structural choices made by a writer that contribute to the reader’s interpretation of a text.
- Narration: A narrator’s or speaker’s perspective controls the details and emphases that affect how readers experience and interpret a text.
- Figurative Language: Comparisons, representations, and associations shift meaning from the literal to the figurative and invite readers to interpret a text.
- Literary Argumentation: Readers establish and communicate their interpretations of literature through arguments supported by textual evidence.

Course Skills

The following skill categories, tied to the big ideas, describe what skills students should develop during the course:

- Explain the function of character.
- Explain the function of setting.
- Explain the function of plot and structure.
- Explain the function of the narrator or speaker.
Explain the function of word choice, imagery, and symbols.

Explain the function of comparison.

Develop textually substantiated arguments about interpretations of part or all of a text.

Exam Components

Sample Multiple-Choice Question

Students are given a passage of writing and asked to respond to a set of prompts and questions based on the passage. Below is one example.

Which of the following statements best conveys the effect of the sentences in lines 30–34 (“The broad . . . paces”)?

(A) The imagery reinforces a sense of the vulnerability of the pedestrians.
(B) The candid tone removes blame from the owners of the houses.
(C) The exaggerated diction undercuts the danger mentioned in the previous sentence.
(D) The parallel structure emphasizes the unity among the townspeople.
(E) The adjectives illustrate the benevolence of the wealthy.

Sample Free-Response Question

An excerpt from the novel Lucy, by Caribbean-American author Jamaica Kincaid, published in 1990, is found on the AP English Literature and Composition Classroom Resources Page. In this passage, the narrator describes the beginning of a new phase in her life. Read the passage carefully. Then, in a well-written essay, analyze how Kincaid uses literary elements and techniques to portray the complexity of the narrator’s new situation.

In your response, you should do the following:

- Respond to the prompt with a thesis that presents an interpretation and may establish a line of reasoning.
- Select and use evidence to develop and support your line of reasoning.
- Explain the relationship between the evidence and your thesis.
- Use appropriate grammar and punctuation in communicating your argument.
