Question 3

The work shown is Last Supper, painted by Leonardo da Vinci between 1494 and 1498 C.E.

Describe how Leonardo created a sense of depth.

Describe how Leonardo represented the figures.

Using specific visual evidence, explain at least two ways in which Leonardo has created an emphasis on Christ.

Explain how these visual characteristics of Last Supper are typical of the Renaissance, the era in which Leonardo worked.

Scoring Notes

1. Accurately describes how Leonardo created a sense of depth.
   - Linear one-point perspective with orthogonal lines visible on the ceiling, on the line of wall hangings, and on the floor.
   - Modeling/chiaroscuro used to create a sense of three-dimensionality in the forms.
   - Use of foreshortening to make the figures appear to be three-dimensional.
   - Windows in the background that allow a view into the landscape beyond depicted using atmospheric perspective.
   - Natural light on the figures corresponds to the actual windows in the refectory.

2. Accurately describes how Leonardo represented the figures.
   - The disciples each show a distinct emotion that is conveyed through facial expressions and gestures.
   - The setting is simple, which focuses attention on the emotional intensity of the group.
   - Through the use of foreshortening and modeling, figures appear to exist realistically in space.
   - Apostles have differentiated poses, especially in regard to facial expressions and individualized, dramatic hand gestures.
   - Apostles, arranged in four groups of three, are interacting with each other and register different emotional responses to the announcement that one of the apostles will betray Christ.
   - Judas is differentiated from other apostles by his intense and shadowed facial expression.
   - All of the apostles sit on one side of the table facing the viewer.

3. Accurately uses specific visual evidence to explain ONE way in which Leonardo has created an emphasis on Christ.
   - The composition positions Christ in the center surrounded by specific groupings of apostles.
   - Christ is the focal point of the one-point perspective system with all of the orthogonal lines in the composition meeting at a vanishing point near Christ's head.
   - The light from the window directly behind Christ creates a halo effect.
   - The circular pediment above the window (the only curved element in the architecture) also contributes to the effect of a halo.
   - Christ, unlike the apostles, has a tranquil and serious expression that reinforces the contrast between the divinity of Christ and the humanity of the apostles.
   - Christ appears isolated, in contrast to the apostles being clustered in groups.
   - Christ fits within an equilateral triangle, creating a stable center.
   - Christ stretches his hands toward the bread and wine on the table.

4. Accurately uses specific visual evidence to explain ANOTHER way in which Leonardo has created an emphasis on Christ.
   - See above.

3. The work shown is Last Supper, painted by Leonardo da Vinci between 1494 and 1498 C.E.

Describe how Leonardo created a sense of depth.

Describe how Leonardo represented the figures.

Using specific visual evidence, explain at least two ways in which Leonardo has created an emphasis on Christ.

Explain how these visual characteristics of Last Supper are typical of the Renaissance, the era in which Leonardo worked.

The Last Supper, created by Leonardo da Vinci from 1494-1498 C.E., is an oil and tempera painting on a large, flat surface. It represents a moment of intense emotion and drama. The central focus is on Christ, who is depicted between theled by the disciples. His face is more expressive, with more emotion and intensity. The other disciples, while still present, are depicted in a more subdued manner. This contrast between Christ and the disciples creates a sense of depth and intensity.

The painting is divided into three main elements: the table, the wall, and the windows. The table is the central element, with the disciples seated around it. The wall behind the table is painted with a vertical stripe, creating a sense of depth. The windows on the right side of the painting let in light, adding to the sense of atmosphere.

Leonardo used sfumato, a technique that involves blending colors and shades to create a soft,3A 1 of 2 in the second grouping from the left shows a highly individualized response, as the architectural setting will betray Jesus. He is depicted as darker than those of the disciples, differing from a long tradition of iconography in which he is depicted either in addition to the clusters, his moneybag indicating that he has sold out Jesus.

Lemarchand's placed emphasis on Christ by placing alone, giving him a symbol of the paganism emerging in his head, facing Christ alone seems to radicalism from the sketches indicating that he is special. In addition, both the architecture and the window behind him serve as a strong symbol, indicating his divinity and thus emphasizing him. Finally, Christ's importance is emphasized by the placement making all the slight linear perspective makeup converge to his head. Eventual triangular form of his torso and arms lends the viewer's eye to his head, emphasizing him.

The use of linear perspective and classical modeling of forms references the Renaissance trend of derived interest in the classical and Neoplatonic. In addition, the individualistic characteristics of the depictions of the disciples indicate a more typical of the Renaissance, style of individualism and humanity, derived from empirical studies of classical art, architecture, and literature from Ancient Greece and Rome.

Explain how these visual characteristics of Last Supper are typical of the Renaissance, the era in which Leonardo worked.

The Last Supper by Leonardo da Vinci is one of the most recognizable paintings in history. The sense of depth, which was created by picking a vanishing point then essentially getting a string and drawing lines from the vanishing point to the foreground, is one of the most revolutionary acts of art of all time. Leonardo created the vanishing point behind Christ's head to put emphasis on him, along with making the natural light come from the back of his head, like a halo. He also made him the center of the painting and made him bright. These are typical to the Renaissance due to the subject, Christ, the realism, the triangular structure, the colors are saturated, and the emphasis on Christ.
3. The work shown is Last Supper, painted by Leonardo da Vinci between 1494 and 1498 C.E.

Describe how Leonardo created a sense of depth.

Describe how Leonardo represented the figures.

Using specific visual evidence, explain at least two ways in which Leonardo has created an emphasis on Christ.

Explain how these visual characteristics of Last Supper are typical of the Renaissance, the era in which Leonardo worked.

Leonardo creates a sense of depth as he singles out the background and centers the work around Jesus. Each door, diagonal or roof leads to Jesus. Leonardo represents the figures in distracter or in surprise as Jesus tells them someone will betray him. Also, they look at Jesus telling him it is not them who will betray him.
Question 3

Note: Student samples are quoted verbatim and may contain spelling and grammatical errors.

Overview

This question asked students to describe visual features of Leonardo da Vinci’s Last Supper, a work from Early Europe and Colonial Americas (200-1750 C.E.). Specifically, the question asked students to describe how depth was created, how the figures were represented, and how Christ was emphasized in the painting. Students then needed to explain how one visual characteristic in the painting is typical of the Renaissance era. The intent of the question was to give students the opportunity to make accurate observations using appropriate art historical language, justify observations with explanation and connect visual features to the broader context.

Sample: 3A
Score: 5

Task 1: Accurately describes how Leonardo created a sense of depth. (1 point)

The response earned this point by accurately describing how Leonardo created a sense of depth in the painting. The student describes how linear perspective adds “mathematical depth to his painting,” creating the illusion of depth (“fooling the eye”) through the use of “receding and converging lines.” Additionally, the student describes how light is used to create a sense of depth: “modeling and shading enhance the sense of depth,” creating a “3D rendering” of forms and an architectural space that “becomes darker as it appears to recede.” While this second explanation is not needed to receive the point, it enhances the quality of the response.

Task 2: Accurately describes how Leonardo represented the figures. (1 point)

The response earned this point by accurately describing how Leonardo represented the figures. The student states that “Christ’s disciples” are represented with the “values of individualism,” as they each display a “unique and personal reaction” to “Christ’s declaration that one of them will betray him.” Figures “all show different facial expressions.” For example, the betrayer, Judas, “in the second grouping from the left,” is shown “darker than the rest of the disciples, drawing from a long tradition of iconography in which evil is depicted darker.” Additionally, the student describes how the disciples “are gathered into groups of three, allowing for more personal interactions among them.” While this second example is not needed to receive the point, it enhances the quality of the response.

Task 3: Accurately explains, by using visual evidence, one way in which Leonardo has created an emphasis on Christ. (1 point)

The response earned this point by accurately explaining one way in which Leonardo placed an emphasis on Christ. The student states that “placing Christ alone serves to isolate him from his disciples, indicating that he is special.”

Task 4: Accurately explains, by using visual evidence, another way in which Leonardo has created an emphasis on Christ. (1 point)

The response earned this point by providing another example of a way in which Leonardo created an emphasis on Christ. The student states that the “architecture overhead and the window behind him serve as a sort of halo, indicating his divinity and thus emphasizing him.” Additionally, the student describes how the use of “linear perspective” and the “triangular form of his torso and arms” lead the “viewer’s eye to his head, emphasizing him.” While this second example is not needed to receive the point, it enhances the quality of the response.
Task 5: Explains how one visual characteristic in Last Supper is typical of the Renaissance, the era in which Leonardo worked. (1 point)

The response earned this point by explaining how visual characteristics in the painting are typical of the Renaissance because of how they connect with the era’s interests in classical revival, humanism, and Neoplatonic thought. Linear perspective, classical modeling of forms, and individualized characteristics were “derived from empirical studies of classical art, architecture and literature from Ancient Greece and Rome.”

Sample: 3B
Score: 3

Task 1: Accurately describes how Leonardo created a sense of depth. (1 point)

The response earned this point by accurately describing how Leonardo creates a sense of depth. The student states that depth was created “by picking a vanishing point,” which allowed for “a string” (attached to the vanishing point) to help guide the “drawing lines from the vanishing point to the foreground” of Last Supper. In this way, both the sense of depth and the process of its creation are described. The response could include additional terms such as linear perspective, orthogonal, and horizon line. In addition, the task point could be earned by discussing modeling or how chiaroscuro creates three dimensional figures and spatial illusionism.

Task 2: Accurately describes how Leonardo represented the figures. (0 points)

No point was earned. The response makes no attempt to describe how Leonardo represented the figures in the painting.

Task 3: Accurately explains, by using visual evidence, one way in which Leonardo has created an emphasis on Christ. (1 point)

The response earned this point by accurately describing how Last Supper’s vanishing point is located “behind Christ’s head,” thereby placing an “emphasis on him.” This identifies Christ as the physical center from which all forms in the painting emanate.

Task 4: Accurately explains, by using visual evidence, another way in which Leonardo has created an emphasis on Christ. (1 point)

The response earned this point by accurately describing another example of how Christ is emphasized in Last Supper. The response states that Christ is emphasized by “the natural light” coming from “behind the back of his (Christ’s) head,” emanating “like a halo.” Additionally, the student states that Christ’s placement in “the center of the painting,” places emphasis on him. However, no point was earned for this example, as the student had already completed Task 3 and 4.

Task 5: Explains how a visual characteristic in Last Supper is typical of the Renaissance era. (0 points)

No point was earned. The response attempts to achieve the task point by stating that “these techniques are typical” to the Renaissance era. The visual characteristics offered as evidence for this claim are “the subject, Christ, the realism, the triangular structure, the colors are saturated, and the emphasis on Christ.” However, no explanation is provided to demonstrate or explain how these visual characteristics are typical of the Renaissance. The subject matter and Christ are typical for many eras of Christian art. Similarly, realism and triangular structures occur in several other cultures, not just the Renaissance. This response needs an explanation rather than an inventory of visual characteristics. For example, the response could explain how these visual characteristics are connected to the revival of the classical past, the Renaissance interests in mathematics.

Sample: 3C
Score: 2

Task 1: Accurately describes how Leonardo created a sense of depth. (1 point)

The response earned this point by accurately describing how a sense of depth is created in Last Supper. Leonardo “shadows the background and centers the work around Jesus” by using light to create depth. A second description of depth is hinted at by forms and terms associated with linear perspective, with the idea that the tapestries (identified as door), diagonal lines, and roof (coffers lines) all lead to Jesus. A more substantial development of linear perspective would include terms such as the phrase “mathematical perspective” or the words “vanishing point,” “horizon line,” and “orthogonal.”

Task 2: Accurately describes how Leonardo represented the figures. (1 point)

The response earned this point by accurately describing how Leonardo represented the figures in various states of emotion, from distraught to surprised. The response explains the reason for these feelings is that Jesus has told the group that “someone will betray him.” Without naming any of the saints, the response notes that the apostles claim they will not be the ones “who will betray him.”

Task 3: Accurately explains, by using visual evidence, one way in which Leonardo has created an emphasis on Christ. (0 points)

No point was earned. Although the response attempts to explain how Leonardo created an emphasis on Christ, since he “centers the work around Jesus,” this statement is directly related to the description of depth, instead of explaining how Christ is physically positioned in the center of the table.

Task 4: Accurately explains, by using visual evidence, another way in which Leonardo has created an emphasis on Christ. (0 points)

No point was earned. The response makes no attempt to explain another way in which Leonardo has created an emphasis on Christ.

Task 5: Explains how a visual characteristic in Last Supper is typical of the Renaissance, the era in which Leonardo worked. (0 points)

No point was earned. The response does not attempt to explain how a visual characteristic in Last Supper is typical of the Renaissance.
